A LESSON IN GOOD CITIZENSHIP

What's the foundation of your business?

If Maysville was not here you would not be here. If Maysville didn't, in your opinion, offer prospects for the future, you would pick up and move.

Are you helping to develop the prospects of your city?

The good citizen helps to develop the city's markets by developing the agricultural resources of the surrounding country. As the country is settled, the city's market grows, as the market grows, new industries are attracted and the established expand.

New industries bring additional population. New population creates new business. Around we go in a circle of prosperity. Of course, one good citizen single-handed, can't do much to make his city grow, but 300 working together through an efficient organization, can do a great deal.

Nearly 300 good citizens, through the Chamber of Commerce of Maysville, are engaged in a good work.

Have you been one of them? If you have not, you haven't been true to yourself. You will be willing to take the credit for what the Chamber of Commerce will be able to do, won't you?

Isn't the Chamber of Commerce entitled to your help?

BOLSHEVIKI REIGN

Breaking As Soldiers Cease Support Maximalist Party Slowly But Inevitably Riding To a Fall.

Copenhagen, December 18—Alexander Kerensky, former premier, has appeared near Petrograd at the head of several thousand troops, according to a despatch via Harapanda, printed today by the Berlings Tidende.

The despatch asserted the Bolsheviks
had sent out armed forces to meet this newest counter-revolution against them. Whether there has been any actual fighting between the two sides was not stated.

Stockholm, December 18—The Maximalist party is slowly but inevitably riding to a fall.

Reliable information from travelers reaching here today, as well as anti-Bolshevik newspapers smuggled via Harapanda, indicate even the Petrograd garrison no longer supports the Lenine-Trotsky ring.

Twenty-six of Russia's provinces and territories formally have refused recognition of the Bolshevik government.
Every Bolshevik claim from Petrograd must be heavily discounted.

Ferriism reigns in Petrograd.

The cleverest intriguers of the old Russian regime are aiding the extremists in playing on the minds of the ignorant masses of the soldiers by fairy tales that there will be an immediate revolution in Germany.

The date set for opening of the Constituent Assembly was the occasion for a monster demonstration in Petrograd in favor of this meeting. Not only was the meeting suppressed, but the Bolsheviks have not permitted any news of it to be sent out.

The demonstrators expressed strong condemnation of the Bolshevik efforts to wreck the assembly.

Latest returns indicate 162 revolutionary Socialists, 96 Maximalists and 13 Cadets as the makeup of the Constituent Assembly, according to Petrograd despatch today.

That the Maximalists feel they can no longer rely on the Petrograd garrison—once their greatest source of power—is indicated in notice that Let-tish troops have been ordered to sur-presa them and now are policing the city.

Petrograd, December 18—The Cossacks recaptured Rostoff today. Reports received here said they disarmed the Red Guards of the Bolsheviks.

Rostoff-on-the-Don is one of the most important commercial cities of southeastern Russia. It is in the territory of the Don Cossacks, first of the Cossacks tribes to declare their revolt against the Bolsheviks. Last week the Bolsheviks claimed to hold the city "safe."

DRY NATION BILL

Adopted By Senate By a Vote of 47 to 8—West States Now Target.

California, Connecticut, Delaware,
Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Louisiana,
Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Missouri, Nevada, New Jersey, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Texas, Vermont, Wisconsin and Wyoming are the wet states, now the target for final prohibition.

Thirteen of these can prevent the prohibition amendment from making the United States a dry nation.

The despatch asserted the Bolsheviks
had sent out armed forces to
meet this newest counter-revolution
against them. Whether there has been any actual fighting between the
two sides was not stated.

Washington, December 18—The Senate concurred today in House amendments to the nation-wide prohibition resolution.

A rising vote was taken. Forty-seven Senators voted for the House amendments and eight against them.
The Senate's action transfers the fight to the State Legislatures. Three-fourths of the state bodies must ratify the dry amendments to make it a part of the constitution.

One year after such approval, "the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof from the United States and all territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes," will be prohibited.

The drys already have laid plans for fights in Ohio, Missouri, Massachusetts and Kentucky, now wet states. Much territory in all of them, it was pointed out, has long been for-bidden ground for liquor. About 85 per cent of Massachusetts is dry under option.

Representative Webb, who engineered the amendment through its legislative pitfalls to success, announced he and other leaders will stamp wet states during summer's vacations.

Senator Borah, Idaho, made a brief but vigorous fight against the provision requiring ratification of the dry amendment within seven years by three-fourths of the states.

Borah said Congress had no right to limit the time within which constitutional amendments shall be ratified.

TALK OF THE TOWN
By Theo. R. Marsters.

The Editor Public Ledger: I inclose an article relating to an old friend of mine and a family who left Maysville in the early "fifties." I thought, perhaps it, or some extracts from it, would be interesting (if published in the Public Ledger) to some of the old friends, and to the relatives in Maysville among whom is a brothers widow, Mrs. James A. Lee, Mrs. Jane Lee's family, the Woods, Wadsworths, Cartmels, etc.

Truly yours,
J. E. BLAINE.

Way down on what was once "the prairie" to us older folk, but is now one of the most populous and busy sections of the city, boasting as its crowning glory that proud of our modern and sophisticated institutions the Proctor Recreation Center, stands the Lee school.

Just one of our many handsome substantial school buildings where the young idea is taught how to do a lot of things besides shoot.

And it is safe to say that of the thousands of children who enjoy its educational benefits and the hundreds of parents who regard it as their chief reward for being citizens of Peoria and almost a due recompense for the somewhat irksome honor of laying annual taxes into the city revenue, few if any are aware from whom the school got its name.

I have an idea indeed, that if they were asked about it nine-tenths of the population would state that in their opinion the Lee school was named for General Robert E. Lee, the dashing confederate general.

Even a large majority of those who know that the school was named in honor of the Hon. John Lee, of Peoria, have only the haziest idea as to who he was or what manner of a man he chanced to be or why and how he won and been awarded the privilege of having his name perpetuated in such a way.

Yet Jack Lee, as he was known to all of his contemporaries, was long a central and dominant figure in our professional, political and business life. And for the greater part of the last century the family now almost unknown here, was prominent, widely known and generally and generously received.

Perhaps the fact that he was so invariably called Jack that if I were to write this little history of him under the name of John few of even his intimate friends would know it, tells better than words what manner of a man that gave it its name. It is only those it loves that the world gives its nickname to.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one disease disease that is science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Catarrh being greatly influenced by constitutional conditions requires constitutional treatment. Haff's Catarrh Medicine is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the body, removing the foundation of the disease, giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio, made by all the best

And nothing could speak more eloquently of the simple, sincere, unaffected character of the hero of this sketch than the statement that the name clung to him not only long after he reached manhood but until the very day of his death.

It was as Jack Lee that he was admitted to the bar, became a dominant and militant figure in our courts, held many positions of honor and eminence in the community and represented our district with brilliant ability in the legislature.

And when death claimed him long before he had reached the allotted span of human life it was Jack Lee the lovable, loyal, loving friend, the simple, modest, singularly gentle and chivalrous man, rather than the public personage that he was universally mourned and wept.

In the public library building stands on a lofty pedestal a marble portrait bust of Jack Lee. Who did I don't know, but I fancy it must have been our sculptor, Fritz Triebel.

Often as I pass hastily in and out of the library I find myself involuntarily pausing before it. Not that it is a particularly imposing creation or that it possesses any arresting quality of beauty or distinction. Portraits in marble seldom do.

But it is a rather good likeness, as such things go, giving a better idea than most of those busts of how the subject really looked. Indeed the artist has limned quite startlingly the patrician delicacy of the features, the fine modeling of the brow and head has even caught a little of the exalted look which to my youthful imagination at least, always gave Jack Lee the appearance of a Sir Galahad.

Whether to others he wore this look of poetic detachment or not I cannot say. But he was certainly romantically handsome with regular features, fine dark eyes and a skin as fair and fine as a girl's. There are doubtless official documents and authentic and guaranteed documents in abundance which can give Mr. Lee's life and career in detail.

But for detail there is little room in these necessarily limited and somewhat hurried sketches of our important men. To give Peorians a glimpse of the personality and perhaps a peep into the heart of a man who did so much to mould the life of his period is the most I can hope for and would be to me a most congenial and agreeable task.

The Lees came from Kentucky and both the father and mother of Jack Lee were of fine old southern stock.

The father was a lawyer and for many years he was a magistrate in this city.

In appearance, manner and his old-fashioned, manly, square and straight justice he was a typical "squire" of the old school. Respected not only by the community whose laws he enforced but also by the lawbreakers whose fate he decided, he held court for many years in the old City Hall building which then shared with the now vanished central market house, the site at present occupied by our stately and sizeable municipal building.

But he, too, died before his allotted time and his death left Jack, as the oldest son, the head of the family.

I never knew the older Mr. Lee but I remember Mrs. Lee very well indeed. Even in her old age she was a strikingly handsome woman with a fine bold profile, fiery dark eyes, a nimble wit and a terse, poignant, almost epigrammatic way of putting things which made her pungent flow of talk inexpressibly fascinating to me.

Altho undeniably indebted to his father for his legal mind and strong sense of justice I fancy Jack Lee must have inherited most of his wit and charm of personality as he undoubtedly did his good looks, from his mother. She was immensely proud of him and he lavished upon her an affection and solicitous care which any mother might have envied her. That his devotion to his mother and his solicitude for his younger brothers and only sister were the mainsprings of his life can be no doubt.

Jack Lee never married. Whether there ever was a love affair in his life I do not know. Probably in his boyhood he may have indulged in a discreet flirtation with a pretty girl no wad then. But at the time I knew him women seemed to have no place in his life whatever.

He was a man's man, loved and admired and eagerly sought by men of all ages. But his private life was bound up in his mother's home.

A WORD WITH WOMEN Valuable Advice for Maysville Readers.

Many a woman endures with noble patience the daily misery of backache, pains about the hips, blue, nervous spells, dizziness and kidney disorders, hopeless of relief because she doesn't know what is the matter.

It is not true that every pain in the back or hips is trouble "peculiar to the sex." Often when the kidneys get congested and inflamed, such aches and pains follow.

Then help the weakened kidneys. Don't expect them to get well alone.

Doan's Kidney Pills have won the praise of thousands of women. They are endorsed—Read this Maysville woman's convincing statement:

Miss Dora Edgington, Wood St., Maysville, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and from the results received, I have every reason to recommend them. At times, my kidneys have become weak and have been irregular in action. My back has ached, too, and has been very weak and lame across my kidneys. When ever I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for this trouble, they have never failed to relieve the complain in a short time. I gladly advise anyone to get a box of Doan's Kidney Pills at Chancery's Drug Store, if troubled in that way."

Miss Edgington is only one of many Maysville people who have gratefully endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills. If your back aches—it is your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for DOAN'S KIDNEY PILLS, the same that Miss Edgington had—the remedy backed by home testimony. 60¢ all stores. family lived for half a century or more, was the only home he ever knew. That if he had been free to pursue only his own ambitions and live a self centered existence Jack Lee might have become a national character there can be little doubt.

Certainly he could have had any office in the gift of his fellow citizens. And that in the face of the fact that he adhered to the political faith of his fathers and was a staunch and loyal democrat at a time when it took courage and meant the renunciation of most public honors to be known as a member of the democratic party. He could have gone to congress any time he had spoken the word. But Jack Lee did not care to go to Washington. His widowed mother needed him—the younger members of the family had claims upon him which he was too loyal to ignore.

He was content to go to the legislature where he attained a popularity as extraordinary as that he enjoyed at home.

With his high-bred good looks, his patrician dignified bearing, he must have been a figure which challenged instant attention among that hordes of simple farmer folk which then as now made up the bulk of our legislative body.

And thru all the stirring times that followed the war he remained a splendid example of the fast vanishing type of old-time gentleman political, sincere, modest, unassuming, and incorruptible as the Galahad with whom I always associated him.

He died as he had lived and it is a pleasant task indeed to be able to chronicle that for once a community was able to appreciate a character wholly without pretense or pose, a life lived simply and honestly without hypocrisy or self-seeking and a career crowned by brilliant success and yet marred by not one single deed that was unworthy or mean.

That in spite of all we see around us it is still possible to succeed in life while doing unto others as you would be done by is the lesson to be learned from the career of Jack Lee.

And it is with the hope that not only the pupils of the school which bears his name but all the young people of our city may know what a fine and splendid heritage the Lee school has been given in that name, that I have written this little human story this morning.

TOUGH ON PAUL GARY—CAN'T TAKE GLASS EYE BACK TO GERMANY

Louisville, Ky., December 16—Paul Gary, of Anderson, Ind., is all American, with the exception of a glass eye. The substitute optic is alien.

Gary tried to enlist in the United States Marine Corps at the recruiting station here, but was rejected when his infirmity was discovered by Sergeant G. C. Wright.

"Didn't you know that loss of an eye would prevent you enlisting?" asked the Sergeant.

"I thought it might," explained Gary, "but this glass blinker is only part of the
